We wrap up our spectacular 65th season with an extraordinary evening of great artistry fulfilling the season's theme of Fanfares and Festivals. This final concert of our anniversary season can be characterized as Olympic, glorious, and bombastic. We will have the SOST Chorus joining us on stage with the vibrant Poulenc Gloria, which will feature soprano Dr. Jammieca Mott as the soloist.

On this evening, we will be delighted with the sounds from Micheal Torke's Javelin. This piece, commissioned by the Atlanta Committee for the 1996 Olympic Games and in celebration of the 50th Anniversary Season of the Atlanta Symphony, is an Olympics-spirited piece of work from one of the best young American composers.

"Javelin is 8 1/2 minutes of memorable tunes and spunky post-minimalist animation; it's up to date yet perfectly designed to capture the essence of the Olympic Games and has the ability to lift the spirit time and time again," boasts one review. And, in a classic all-American touch, Torke named his piece not just after the ancient Olympian symbol and sport, but also after his dad's old car!

We conclude this evening with the 1812 Overture. The Year 1812, festival overture in E major, Op. 49, popularly known as the 1812 Overture, is a concert overture written in 1880 by Russian composer Ilyich Tchaikovsky to commemorate Russia's defense of its motherland against Napoleon's invading Grande Armée in 1812.

The overture debuted in Moscow on August 20, 1882, conducted by Ippolit Al'tani under a tent near the then-unfinished Cathedral of Christ the Saviour, which also memorialized the 1812 defense of Russia. The overture was conducted by Tchaikovsky himself in 1891 at the dedication of Carnegie Hall, in what was one of the first times a major European composer visited the United States. The overture is best known for its climactic volley of cannon fire, ringing chimes, and brass fanfare finale. It has also become a common accompaniment to fireworks displays on the United States' Independence Day. The 1812 Overture went on to become one of Tchaikovsky's most popular works.

For the 1812 Overture, we will also feature a surround sound of offstage brass and percussion players from Lamar University. "This will be a sonic spectacular not to be missed," said Chelsea Tipton on describing the final concert of the 65th season. "We will definitely go out with a bang!"

Maestro's Notes

This season finale is going to be the biggest and best yet! We have our SOST chorus joining us on stage with the voluminous and colorful Poulenc Gloria featuring soprano Dr. Jammieca Mott serving as our soloist on the work. We will be closing out the season with our orchestra being featured in the 1812 Overture by Tchaikovsky. Not only will you hear the orchestra, but joining them will be the choir, as well as surround sound of offstage brass and percussion players from Lamar University to join us on the 1812 Overture. It will be a sonic spectacular not to be missed!

We have had a wonderful 2017-18 season. Some of the highlights for the orchestra was our opening concert right after the hurricane and having Evelyn Glennie on stage with us and witnessing how the community rallied to support us was spectacular! Our John Williams Pops Concert was so much fun to put together and the Classics III concert with the Enigma Variations by Edward Elgar showed off our SOST talents like never before. I could go on and on. We are making an imprint in the community with our orchestra as we celebrate 65 years of music making.

The summer months for the orchestra is a planning and organizing period for us as it gives us time to look up the road some. We will begin planning our 2019-20 season during the summer months, looking for artists, securing contracts and looking ahead as to what music we can program. It also affords us a chance to look at what worked and did not work last season, so we can look toward areas of improvement.

Next season I will be celebrating 10 years with the SOST, so we are pulling out all of the stops! We will have a new piece composed for the orchestra by Nick Rissman on our opening concert along with Gershwin's An American in Paris. On the Pops side we have Byron Stripling returning to our stage with his Louis and Ella program and the Texas Tenors are going to be joining us. Some amazing repertoire will be performed that include composers such as Ravel's Daphnis and Chloe, the picturesque Beethoven Symphony No. 6 with his Pastoral Symphony and much, much more. There will always be a few surprises that we have in store for our patrons.

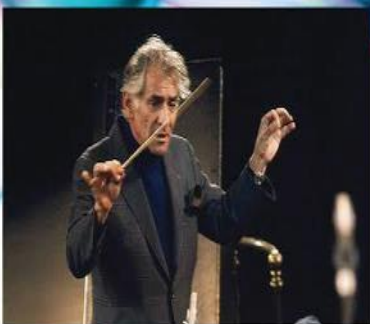

I am looking forward to serving the Symphony of Southeast Texas and the Golden Triangle community for 5 more years with my new contract. We have begun to really raise the profile of the orchestra in the area and there is still more work to be done.

Brad Brown, Treasurer

Q) What do you enjoy about serving on the board?

A) I have observed that members of the SOST Board of Directors are faithful in their participation and are passionate about the benefits that a well-supported Symphony can provide their community. It is enjoyable to serve an organization that brings people together to serve a common good. The Board needs reliable and relevant financial information to understand the current financial health of the Symphony and to plan for its seasons ahead. I enjoy playing a vital role in that financial reporting process.

Q) How long have you been a board member?

A) I was asked to join the 2017-2018 SOST Board of Directors as Treasurer. This has been my first volunteer opportunity with the Symphony, though I have long appreciated the Symphony and its contributions to our community. As a Certified Public Accountant formerly in practice with a local firm, I have developed unique skills, training, and experience that lend well to my role on the Board. My first exposure to the operations of the Symphony and its Board was as a CPA Shareholder engaged as Independent Auditor. I was impressed then by the seriousness by which Board Members accepted their fiduciary responsibilities to be active and informed participants in the discussions before the Board. This is a vital role the Board plays to maintain the financial accountability of the Symphony.

Q) What has been your favorite SOST concert?

A) My wife, Debbie, and I especially enjoyed this season's performance of piano soloist Tomoko Kanamaru and our symphonic orchestra's presentation of Edward Elgar's Enigma Variations.

Q) Do you or did you ever play a musical instrument?

A) Music was a natural aspect of growing up in the Brown Family. Whether listening, playing or singing, my three brothers and I were encouraged to explore our creative talents as expressions of our love of God. Our father claimed he had no musical gifts and continually proved the claim true. We were nurtured along in our musical development by our mother, who taught piano before graduating university with a Bachelor of Arts in Music. At home, we were reluctant pupils. However, we all found our place in band or choir at school and at church. In the sixth grade, I was influenced to play saxophone by my orthodontist, who regarded the woodwind to be less likely to undermine his efforts at straightening my bite. I continued playing saxophone through high school and into Lamar University under then Director of Bands, Dr. Jimmy Simmons. I was not the most serious or accomplished Brown brother under Dr. Simmons' baton. However, I found the comradery and community of musicians to be familiar and made my experience at Lamar that much more rewarding.

Q) What is your profession?

A) Since 2013, I have served as Trust Manager with First Financial Trust & Asset Management. First Financial Trust is associated with First Financial Bank with branches in Beaumont, Orange, and Port Arthur.

Q) Other community involvement?

A) My current other community service involvement includes serving as Treasurer of Rotary Club of Beaumont and Treasurer of United Way of Beaumont. I am a board member of The CHRISTUS Health Foundation of Southeast Texas and Lamar University Alumni Advisory Board. I am also a member of Southeast Texas Estate Planning Council, Lamar University Planned Giving Advisory Council, and Lamar University Cardinal Club. I was recognized as the 2008 "Co-Newsmaker of the Year" by the Press Club of Southeast Texas for efforts leading to the passage of the "Ashley and Alicia's Law", a Texas law requiring seat belts on school buses.

Q) Hobbies?

A) I am a relative newcomer to the area cycling community, having participated in the Houston to Austin bike ride with MS 150 and two rides with Hotter n Hell 100 at Wichita Falls.
